14 Thefts In Area; $333 Taken At Station

Homes, Stores In Rural Area And Granite City Visited By Burglars

Burglars chalked up 14 thefts over the weekend, including $333 taken from a rural service station, $100 worth of tools from a Granite City auto parts store and an envelope with $25 from a Granite City home.

In Mitchell, a woman captured a young burglar at gunpoint and along Highway 67, on an air-conditioning unit and a television set were among items stolen from a home.

A money box containing $333 was stolen from the rear room at the A&K Service station, Route 11 and 182, between 9 p.m. Friday and 5:15 a.m. Saturday, it was reported by county authorities by the owner, Ralph Anderson.

Entrance was gained through a side window which previously had been broken. The burglar also helped himself to several fishing licenses.

Tool sets valued at $100 were stolen last night from Berger Auto Parts store, 1816 State street, by thieves who smashed a skylight at the rear of the building to drop into the store.

Jack Harper, proprietor, said an assortment of small tools was taken, and the thief also attempted to pry open a soft drink machine.

Cyril Jacobs, 1433 (rear) Washington avenue, reported to Granite City police at 6:20 p.m. Friday that a brown envelope containing $25 was missing from his home. He said the house was unlocked but was occupied except at 8 to 10 p.m. Thursday.

All-Out Traffic Alert By State Starts Wednesday

Plain and marked patrol cars, radar and an airplane will be used by State Police District 11 to control traffic during the Memorial Day holiday weekend, it was reported today by Capt. Emil Toffant.

The alert will start Wednesday afternoon. The danger hours are expected to be 4 p.m. to midnight Wednesday and 8 a.m. to midnight Sunday.

There will be no days off for any trooper on Wednesday and again next Sunday when the peak traffic flows are expected on the highways. License investigators of secretary of state's office will aid troopers in patrolling.

Capt. Toffant said the state's special "action patrol" of 15 troopers also will be in District 11, patrolling major highways in marked and unmarked radio-patrol cars.

"Every effort will be made to curb traffic violations and reduce the number of accidents and traffic deaths, starting Monday afternoon and continuing through midnight Sunday," Toffant said.

The $10,000 for relief purposes is to be borrowed from Granite City Trust & Savings Bank at 4% interest. Supervisor Harry Briggs explained the relief fund has outstanding debts and the borrowing is necessary because of the delay in receiving new tax money.

Fire Destroys Club Bayou Tavern Early Saturday

Early Saturday morning about 3:15 a.m., Saturday destroyed Club Bayou (also known as Bayou Tavern) on Chouteau Slough road and a 1936 auto parked in front of the building.

Mitchell Chief Lee Paul said he has called upon Deputy Fire Marshall Marvin Teller of Granite City to investigate the possibility of arson. "We could see the flames as we pulled out of the station, and the roof collapsed as we drove up," the chief said.

The two-story frame building was virtually destroyed with parts of only two walls left standing. The auto parked in front, which also was in flames when firemen arrived, was registered in the name of Joyce Hollis, 1619 Delmar avenue.

District To Resubmit Proposal To Voters Again During Summer

Defeat of the tax rate boost for the Mitchell fire district, 318 to 217, in Saturday's special election has not discouraged firemen, who plan to resubmit the proposal to voters during the summer.

Gordon Routh, treasurer for the fire district, said many residents of the Mitchell fire district were confused on the ballot's finances and that the books are open for public inspection at any time.

Tax Rates Of 9 Agencies Up, 6 Down, 3 Same

Nine tax rate increases, six decreases and three unchanged combine to produce higher total rates for most Quad-Cityans, the accompanying chart reveals. The rates apply to the taxes to be collected this summer.

There was a sharp drop in the Madison county rate; a sharp rise in the levee district tax; increases in two of the three cities; hikes in two of three school districts; rises in three of five township rate categories; an increase in one park district, with the remaining the same a year ago; no change in a fire district rate; and a decrease in street lighting tax, with another unchanged.

The rates given are based on $100 assessed valuation. For a $10,000 home valued $6000 under the 60% assessment plan, the new rate grand total of $1016 in Granite City would result in a tax payment of $240.

Due to the three-fold nature of the taxing process, variances in the rates reflect differences not only in tax levies but also in the size of the assessment base. Now that the new levee district tax rate (1962 tax year for collection) has been set in the office of the county clerk is proceeding with final work on the tax books, which will be released during the next ten days. Collectors in each township then will apply aggregate rates against individual valuations and mail out the tax bills.

Gov. Kerner Proposes Tax Change To Give Added Income At County, City Levels

(Special from Springfield)

A measure which Gov. Otto Kerner supports for the reclassification of real property and the abolishment of personal property taxes, seems assured of a recommendation for passage from the House committee on constitutional amendments in the Illinois General Assembly.

The measure is in the form of a House joint resolution, introduced by Rep. Paul Edward (D-Chicago). It requires passage by both houses, does not need the governor's signature and would then be submitted to voters in the November 1964 general elections, as a Blue Ballot proposal.

Gov. Kerner said it would add income for government agencies on a local level. If the Blue Ballot is approved by the voters, the change in the state's constitutional revenue article is authorized. With a change the governor's plan for more revenue without new taxes—what he outlined in the November 1962 Assembly—could be implemented by the legislature.

Rep. Edward has one of the 15 members of the committee as sponsors of the resolution, and has a total of 63 names from both sides of the aisle on it, but still faces stiff opposition. It needs a two-thirds vote in both houses to pass.

The governor's second budget last week was a short one, lasting only 13 minutes. It was in contrast to his message to the General Assembly in the last legislative session when he spoke for a half hour and long. The speech dealt with the Blue Ballot proposal for which he asked legislative approval and capital improvement spending, details of which will be spelled out in bills which will be offered next week.

Reapportionment Stymied

The Republican and Democratic plans for reapportionment of state representative districts were put to a test vote in the House Thursday and both failed to get a necessary simple majority of 89 votes.

The action however, can only be described as a preliminary skirmish. Only a minimum of 100 votes are needed to pass the bill. Both sides are still withdrawing for future consideration, so both are still in the game. Undoubtedly, there will be discussions between both parties to try to find a compromise area of agreement before either bill is put to another vote test.

A bill in the House which would restrict assistance to voters who cannot speak English, failed by one vote to pass. It was a Republican sponsored measure, introduced by Rep. George Dolezal of Chicago, and the vote on it produced the nearest achievement to party unity which House GOP members have had in this session.

One Republican member, Robert Austin of East Moline, failed to vote with his party, casting his ballot as "present." Had he voted, the bill would have been passed and sent to the Senate. Dolezal kept the bill alive by postponing consideration. One other Republican, not present, was State Rep. Hector Broadbent of Chicago, is ill at his home.

To Rebuttal Marriage Bill

A bill in the House, which would require that anyone between the ages of 18 and 21 would need parental consent failed of passage and was withdrawn to be submitted again at a later date. Rep. Ralph T. Smith (R-Alton), the bill's sponsor, said the intent of his proposal was to tighten up divorce laws and act as a representative to broken marriages.

The House passed and sent to the Senate a bill which would require front seat belts in all autos after June 30, 1964. The proposal was introduced by Sen. Joseph DeLaCorte (D-Chicago) on Jan. 9 and was approved in the Senate on May 2. A Senate measure, by Rep. Terrell Clarke (R-Western Springs) is the House calendar.

The House also passed and sent to the Senate a measure which permits Sheriff Richard B. Ogilvie to establish a merit system for his staff. The vote was 159 to 9, and none of the votes against it came from Cook county legislators. The proposal provides that a bipartisan merit board be named by the sheriff with the approval of the Cook County Board, to pass on eligibility and qualifications of applicants for police jobs. This board would also review promotions.

The bill was endorsed by Chicago Mayor Richard Daley and Cook County Republican Committee Chairman Hayes.

In the Senate, bills to abolish the Illinois Public Aid Commission were passed by a 41-14 vote. Introduced by Sen. W. Russell Arrington (R-Evanston), the bills would replace the commission with a new code department. The proposal is reported to have good chances of passage in the House. In 1961, the governor supported such a move.

Sunday Closing Still Pending

A move in the Senate to amend the Sunday closing bills and force taverns to close on that day too, was beaten. However, an amendment which would give some religious sects who hold a Sabbath day other than Sunday, the option of closing on Saturday, was passed. More amendments are pending on the bill, and as a result, the measure has not gone to Senate passage.

The House passed and sent to the Senate a bill which authorizes an annual salary of $15,500 for associate circuit judges. State Rep. Paul Edward (D-Chicago) told the House he opposed the bill because it would cost the state $3.3 million more a year. He said the only way the state can assume this cost is to increase taxes. In Cook County, associate circuit judges would be given an extra $8000 annually, but this last would be paid by the county.

Down Is The Uplifting Direction For SCUBA Divers

While specially-selected and highly-trained astronauts are probing the frontiers of space for the United States and Russia, little groups of equally dedicated persons are exploring their own unique explorations in another element right here on earth.
Pointed in the opposite direction and working on somewhat smaller budgets than did Gordon Cooper, Andrian Nikolayev or Pavel Popovich, they are members of SCUBA (self-contained underwater breathing apparatus) clubs in this country, and they become just as excited about exploring an underwater cave or sunken barge as do space teams when the tulk gets around to moon shots.
At least that is the impression one gets after conversing with members of one such sports diving group, the Bubblemasters Diving club of Granite City.

In Sixth Year

Drawing its membership from a wide variety of careers, the club's sixth year here and, like the special status of the initial growing pains stage, is a nucleus of nine members. From a nucleus of nine members, the club has grown until it includes about 35 members, some 20 of whom are active in SCUBA gear both winter and summer are qualified SCUBA course instructors, or whose interests have been channeled into such diversified projects as the construction of a two-man submarine or underwater photography.
During the week, Bubblemasters work in such jobs as the steel industry, insurance selling, plumbing, advertising, teaching and banding.

Bitten By Waterbug

But all were bitten some time ago by the weekend waterbug, and come Friday night most are in any time during warm weather groups of them, armed with tanks, fins, regulators, masks, spear guns, air compressors and camping equipment, set out in search of clear water... and their own special kind of adventure.
It may consist of a spearfishing outing at a Missouri lake, treasure hunt or compass course competition with members of other clubs in St. Louis, SCUBA Diving Association, exploration of a water-filled quarry or, in the winter months, surface ice dive beneath the surface of a frozen lake.
Or it could include the unexpected search of a lake bottom for fishing gear or a boat motor, an attempt to locate a sunken treasure chest, or the unappetizing task of searching for a drowning victim.

Most of the Bubblemasters have participated in some of all alone), learns how to don and remove gear underwater and, in or another over the past five years, gain confidence in their own selves and their equipment while bringing new experiences their building their physical stamina.

Use Of Equipment

Students then progress to the use of equipment handling and use of a stage, learn how to enter and leave the water, clear masks, "bubbles" for the remainder of the course (no SCUBA diver is in his right mind ever diving without a tank, regulator, mask, fins, hand signals, etc.)
Coupled with the textbook course is 16 hours of in-the-water work, including a swimming test calling for a 100-yard sustained swim, 40 foot underwater swim without apparatus, tread water periods and a 60-foot surface swim with an attached 30-pound weight.

Water Sports Background
An interest in water sports from an early age seems to be the main prerequisite.
For some, the interest goes back many years. Newt Kennedy is the oldest active member of the Bubblemasters. He is 63, and logged a lot of lake on top of the water before deciding to find out what it looked like from underneath.
Homer was a competitive swimmer at an early age, and first became interested in SCUBA while serving as a lifeguard during a SCUBA instruction course at the YMCA pool.
Carl Krohn Jr., a production supervisor at A. O. Smith Corp., west Diving Council. "We hope to work more carefully and gain better results."

Another Bubblemaster
member, insurance salesman Bill Brannan, got an early start in the water, too. He represented the YMCA in a state swimming meet when he was 21 years old.

Army Swimmer

Sumner, a machinist, recalls living just a block away from an indoor pool as a boy. "And I practically lived in the water," he recalls. He also swam competitively, as a member of the way. If the club's brief history all in the relative safety of a swimming pool.

Candidates then take a final written examination with 90% considered the lowest passing grade. "No diver ever came out alive," point out nationally certified YMCA instructors Ron Homer, currently president of the Bubblemasters, and A. J. Mueller Jr. in urging their students to work toward a perfect score on the test, Louis Brown, YMCA SCUBA instructor, echoes this philosophy, too.
These requirements completed successfully, the new member pays a $15 initiation fee and $5 for yearly membership. ($7.50 is the family rate), and takes his first supervised dive in open water, usually in a handy lake. Then experience and practice take over as instructors.

Effect Of Depth

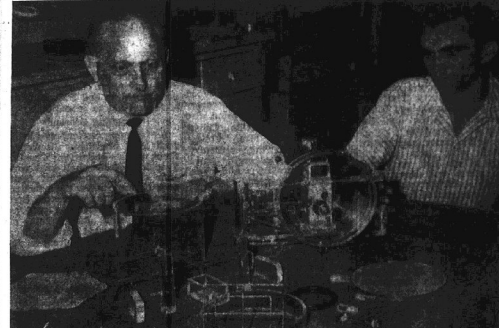

Sometimes new divers find it difficult to "clear their ears" at depths over 10 feet. "But ear drums become more accustomed to depth pressure with experience," says club member Charles Sumner. "It's not long, usually, before a diver feels comfortable down to depths of 40 feet."
That is usually as deep as the sport diver cares to venture, both for safety's sake and because visibility in most water is often nil below that depth.
In most instances, he is not prevented by depth limitations from exploring sunken wrecks, or the hulls of old shipwrecks, or from practicing the difficult art of spearfishing, two of the activities which draw persons to the sport in increasing numbers year after year.

What Else Attracts Them?

"Since none of us are engineers, building the sub has its problems," says Brannan, who estimates another nine months' work will be necessary before the first water test.
Bubblemasters were not exactly heartened when their workshop sub constructed by Cleveland Park, Kan., engineers sank on its maiden underwater voyage last summer at Table Rock Lake.
Proceed With Care
"Frankly, their work was a little crude," Brannan says. "But other Bubblemasters, saw the sub while at Table Rock for the spring meeting of the Midwest Diving Council. "We hope to work more carefully and gain better results."

Careful work has paid dividends in completed projects, including an underwater sled built by Jack Atkinson, a plumber, from copper tubing and a second wooden sled, together by several Bubblemasters.
The sleds are designed to be towed by pole saws and explore where and when you want to without having to expose your own body.
A submarine was the next logical step. "Just imagine being able to sit in the thing and explore where and when you want to without having to expose your own body."

Sumner, a machinist, recalls living just a block away from an indoor pool as a boy. "And I practically lived in the water," he recalls. He also swam competitively, as a member of the

U. S. Army tank team in Korea. Steelworker Ed Duffin bought SCUBA gear and began diving on his own. His interest waned, but when the Bubblemasters formed he joined. "It scared me half to death to think of the wrong things I'd been doing up to that time," he relates. Duffin "learned correctly" from scratch and is now an active club diver. Tanks and fins came naturally to Rich Griffin, too. "A gang of us used to swim regularly in the canal and river," he recalled, "and I'd often sneak out of the house early on a Sunday morning in order to avoid helping with the dishes."
Griffin is another former power boater, and his wife, Dixie, now perhaps the most enthusiastic Bubblemasters hooster—became a SCUBA diver "not because I like it, but to keep Rich company."

Diversified possibilities within the framework of sport diving itself seem unlimited. Griffin, Brannan, Krohn and Sumner currently are tackling the many problems connected with the construction of a two-man open cockpit submarine, designed to include ballast tanks and diving planes and powered by a 24-volt electric motor seated in a watertight compartment. The sub's hull is formed from a surplus jet plane wing fuel tank, which the four builders picked up at Rolla, Mo., in a sale.
The sub's crew will ride inside, wearing SCUBA gear and sitting behind a Plexiglas "windshield" and a viewing porthole.

UNDERWATER WORLD is not strictly a man's domain, as is proved by Bubblemaster's historian Mrs. Dixie Griffin, shown emerging from a lake dive, clad in "wet suit" and brandishing spear gun.
ert yourself," smiled Sumner, another world where you know this intangible spirit of adventure, propeller and con-limits of common sense and physical abilities.
Spirit Of Adventure
Other club members also cited this intangible spirit of adventure as the first and most valuable of club members is an understanding of the value of the chance of stumbling onto the unexpected. Blankenship, an industrial safe-bizzar while in this silent world below the water's surface.

Blankenship, an industrial safe-bizzar while in this silent world below the water's surface.

One final question: What is it about SCUBA diving which so fascinates its advocates?
"It's something hard to put in to words," says Sumner. "There is a feeling of calm and relaxation down there. It's something that makes me, for no good reason, want to do loops and cartwheels right in the water. And I do them, too."
Brannan had another reason. "Why does a person dive? Well, why do people climb mountains? Why do people climb mountains? or duplicate anywhere else. You're on your own. There isn't a sound down there other than your own air bubbles. You're in there."

GC-Edwardsville Sectional Game Today Postponed

Granite City and Edwardsville high school baseball clubs will meet tomorrow afternoon instead of today in a first-round game at the Stanton sectional tournament.

The game has been postponed due to wet grounds, GCES Athletic Director Dick Yates said shortly before noon today.

The Warriors will play Edwardsville at 2 p.m. tomorrow, with Stanton and Springfield Griffls slated to play the second first-round game immediately afterward.

The date and time of the championship contest between tomorrow's winners is indefinite today, and will be left to the discretion of the coaches of the winning teams.

Charles Papp of Granite City and Al Vest of Edwardsville are scheduled to play in a game between clubs which split a pair of contests during the regular season.

Commencement exercises are scheduled Wednesday evening at Stanton high school, Thursday marks the Memorial Day holiday, and Friday is the likely date for the championship game which will send the winner to the state tournament at Peoria next week, Yates said.

Mercer, Hearts Fall In Late Innings

St. Clair Heating rallied for four runs after two were out in the bottom of the ninth yesterday at Jones Park in East St. Louis to nip Mercer 6-5 and hold its lead in the Southwest Illinois Inter-City Baseball league's Blue division.

Another Jones, boy, Clarence, carried the big risk for the Hearts, driving in four runs for the losers on three base hits.

Sacred Heart trailed 4-1 in the third when five straight singles by Mike Sues, Sam George, Mike McKeehan, Jones and Bob Hoffer put them right back in the game.

Bob Vetter of Mercer had St. Clair shut out for seven innings before the 1-C's only unbeaten team reached him for two runs, both unearned, in the eighth.

Mercer had scored three times on Don Chabre's hit, a walk, wild pitch and two St. Clair errors in the third. The 3-2 lead in the eighth awarded to 5-2 in the ninth when Rich Bonding singled, swiped second and scored on Jim Pitts' single, and Vetter drove Pitts home with a triple.

Winning pitcher Gene Masanelli got the two-out St. Clair single. Ed Hopkins followed with a hit, Don Hefferly was safe on an error and Dick Dillon plated one run with a double. John Crikovich then delivered a tie-breaking and game-deciding single, scoring Hefferly and Dillon.

Farm Column

By IRUMAN W. MAY
Madison County Farm Adviser

If you use alfalfa varieties in your legume program, you're getting better yields for a reason. Adapted varieties resist two of the chief causes of alfalfa crown trouble in alfalfa—winter injury and root and crown rots—better than unadapted varieties.

These troubles usually first attack alfalfa plants in poorly drained, low-fertility fields with a high water table. Sometimes insects and nematodes are involved. Winter injury in several forms—early spring frost injury, heaving damage from low temperatures to unadapted varieties or freeze-thaw injury—may become more severe when fungi and bacteria established themselves in damaged areas. Bacterial wilt often follows winter injury.

To control winter injury grow adapted, hardy, high-yielding varieties recommended in this area, such as Alfa, Buffalo, Cody, DuPuis, F.D.-100, or Verano. About the last week of the growing season this year, allow the plant to store food in the taproot and crown by cutting or grazing. You can cut or graze after the growing season ends.

Crown and root rots that attack alfalfa include dry rot and crown rots or "decays," caused by a number of fungi, as well as Phytophthora root rot.

To control root and crown rots, grow well-adapted, high-yielding varieties. In addition, avoid overgrazing, rank and high rates of fertilizer, especially nitrogen. Plow under this winter, if possible, rotate four-to-six years with non-legume crops, preferably grasses or cereals.

Plant certified, high-quality seed grown in low-rainfall regions. Plant in well-drained soil in a well-prepared seedbed. Avoid low areas that are subject to flooding. Practice balanced soil fertility based on a soil test. Acid soils get a pH of 6.2 to 7.

The Midwest Plan Service has released another in its series of equipment plan books for livestock producers. This one is especially for beef breeders.

University of Illinois agriculture engineer Art Muehlstein says the 72-page book contains dozens of plans and diagrams representing the latest in homebuilt beef equipment.

Typical plans in the 8 1/2 x 11 book include banks and feeders, headgates and squeezers, loading chutes, sun shades, mineral feeders, hoof trimming tables and waterers. Also included are feedlots designed for top beef production efficiency.

The beef equipment book is the fifth in a series of equipment plan books released by the Midwest Plan Service. Others are available on swine, poultry, sheep and home meat processing. Drawings are now being completed for a new dairy equipment plan book which will be available in the near future.

The books sell for $1 each. Interested farmers can get copies by writing to the University of Illinois Department of Agricultural Engineering in Urbana or they can be ordered through the farm adviser's office.

Every spring we get inquiries about clover mites, tiny insects in the house, especially around windows and on drapes and curtains.

Clover mites look like tiny red to brown specks, but they move around. They hibernate behind weatherboards and in the void spaces of house walls. With warm weather, they are now leaving these hibernating quarters. Some enter the house, and others migrate to the outside. They do no damage in the house but they are annoying to many people.

To prevent recurrence this fall and next spring, sweep and sweep next to the foundation, leaving a strip of bare soil about 18 inches wide. This strip can be planted to flowers.

If the grass is desired now, spray the soil, the grass bordering the barren strip, and the side of the house up to the bottom of the windows and around or between them according to the instructions on the container.

Ants are also now entering houses in search of food. To prevent this entry, spray the outside foundation with 1 percent diatomaceous earth or 2 percent chloroform. Get emulsifiable concentrates and dilute to proper strength with water. Spray to run-off from the soil line about six inches up the foundation. Do not spray along dry shrubs or cisterns. Do not spray stucco or concrete. And, where feasible, rotate four-to-six years with non-legume crops, preferably grasses or cereals.

Excessive speed is still the No. one cause of tractor accidents. Defective wheel brakes, rough roads or a quick turn can be deadly if the operator's speed is too high.

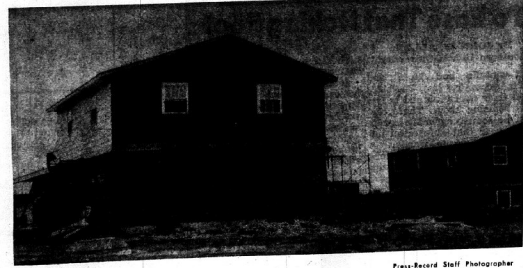

Teen-aged tractor operators have far too many accidents. Work with these young operators and make sure they receive careful instruction and supervision until they are fully qualified.

Extra riders also rank high on the list as a cause of accidents. No tractor was ever built to carry extra passengers safely. Children in particular too often must wait with serious injury or death in the rearview mirror.

New Grand Jury To Get Cases On 22 Burglaries

The new May term circuit grand jury was convened today at Edwardsville to hear about 25 criminal cases presented by State's Atty. Dick H. Mudge and his staff.

Among them will be the charges of burglary and attempted burglary against six youths involved in a series of 22 burglaries and thefts in Granite City and the rural area outside the city.

No charges were placed against the gang by the sheriff's office, but data on seven thefts in the rural area in which the youths admitted being involved will be presented to the grand jury.

While the total amount of loot taken in the 22 break-ins has not been determined, Granite City and county authorities last week reported a list of the places hit by the gang, operating in groups of three or four.

The burglaries started last November and came to an end about 4:45 a.m. May 19 when police spotted a youth at the door to the Parkway confectory at 27th street and Michigan avenue.

The teenager was chased into Wilson Park and captured. Two of his accomplices, who were in an auto parked at the rear of the store, eluded police but were taken into custody later in the morning. The others who were implicated were arrested and charged last week.

A list of places entered by Granite City was compiled by Chief of Detectives James R. Lowder.

A small amount of money also was taken March 7 from Maryland Barber shop, 2133 Ponton road.

On March 18, the June Siles home, 2261 Ponton road, was entered, and also the home of Francis Schwarzkopf, 3609 Franklin avenue, where jewelry, cameras, a radio and $150 cash were taken.

On March 24, a burglary was staged at the S. M. Wilson home, 12 Terrace lane, and on March 25, the places visited were the W. R. Winters residence, 42 Riviera drive, and the Lovely Lady's shop, 2001 Edward street.

On May 15, jewelry and charge plates were taken from the Michael Lombardi home, 2108 Adams avenue, while on May 14 the Ted Hendricks home at 2968 Waterman avenue was looted of 10 silver dollars, 40 pennies, trading stamp books and a lighter.

The Butler service station was hit again May 18, and the final report was the May 19 attempt at Parkway confectory.

Net earnings of A. O. Smith Corp. for the three-month period ending April 30 amounted to $2,355,828, equivalent to $1.10 per share of stock, it was announced last week at Milwaukee by L. B. Smith, president.

For the comparable quarter in 1962, the earnings were $1,702,478 or 79 cents a share. Net sales for the 1963 quarter were $72,358,465 as compared to $65,284,385 in the same quarter last year.

Smith noted that for a nine-month period the Automotive division's sales established a new high, and that the Granite City plant in the 1963 quarter shipped its five millionth auto frame.

Since the turn of the century, A. O. Smith has manufactured more than 65 million auto frames.

The rates are combined here in the way that they affect the majority of people in the local areas. For persons in different governmental groups, the rates will vary accordingly.

Long Lake fire district residents should add 8.8 cents (a drop of four mills from last year) to the other rates in Nameoki township to determine their total rate. Those in the Miracle Manor-Bellemeor Place street lighting district should add 9.3 cents (a drop of seven mills from last year). In the State Park Place street lighting district, 10 cents should be added. The rate is unchanged from last year.

Nameoki township resident in the Madison school district should substitute that rate for the Granite City school district rate. Those in the city of Madison should add the city tax rate.

Venice township residents in the Granite City school district should use that district's rate. In all cases, the exact rate can be found by adding the rates of the governmental areas in which each taxpayer resides.

The procedure outlined enables property owners to determine their new combined tax rate immediately, based on $100 assessed value. The figures will be applied officially with tax bills this summer.

To Ease That Itching Foot

By JOHN W. ALLEN
Southern Illinois University

At winter's end birds and beasts become restless. The birds begin their migration and beasts start roaming about. There also must be something in the spring of the year that arouses an impulse in people to wander.

Here are suggestions for a one-day ramble that takes the wanderer to a number of the scenic spots in Gallatin county. A good place to begin this suggested trip is at Equality, easily reached from the west over Illinois Highway 13, or from the north over either Illinois 142 or 1.

In Equality one sees the somewhat shrunken village that once was the county seat. It is not so busy now. Many of the older buildings are gone. The vacated public square, a block or so north of downtown, is empty except for a monument bearing a bronze plaque honoring the memory of the massive, stormy, unconventional, Irish-born Michael K. Lawler, Mexican War captain and Civil War general. Lawler's grave is in the small burying ground on the hilltop about a fourth of a mile southwest from the junction of Highways 1 and 13. A simple grave marker bears the one familiar inscription: R. I. P. Those familiar with the history of Lawler think the inscription appropriate.

Early Masonic Lodge

Those knowing something of the history of Freemasonry in Illinois will recall that Equality lodge is among the very first ones in the state. The little cemetery within the village contains the graves of several people of note, including that of a relative of Aaron Burr.

From the junction of Highways 1 and 13 the wanderer should go south to visit the Old Slave House and Nigger Spring. The house, about half a mile southwest of the junction of the highways, overlooks the salt spring on the south bank of Saline River. It was built in the 1830's by John Crenshaw; the last one making salt at the ancient site where Indians had been making it far beyond a thousand years.

Old Shawneetown

Returning from the cemetery over the gravel road and turning south on Route 13 it is not far to all that remains of "Old Shawneetown". Among the more interesting buildings are the Marshall residence and the State Bank Building. It was in the Marshall residence, downriver about 200 yards and hard against the levee, that banking began in Illinois. It was in the larger State Bank Building with its five great Doric columns, among the very best of their kind in the United States, that banking in Shawneetown was continued for another century. Work is now being done to preserve these two historic buildings.

Only a few old residences and the brick business building that once lined the main street of the city are left. In between the few that remain are the fallen and burned remains of others. To those who know its history or who knew the town in its better days, it is very much a ghost town.

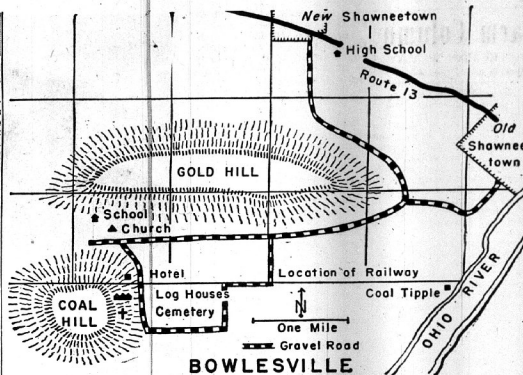

Bowlesville Site

If time remains, and one should arrange to have it do so, the traveler should leave by the downriver gravel road that leads toward Gold Hill, named for Calvin Gold, the gunsmith who was largely responsible for Shawneetown's beginning. This will lead the wanderer to Bowlesville, or rather to the site of Bowlesville, for the town has gone.

Only two or three buildings of the old town remain. One of these is a large brick house with queer roof lines. Once this was a hotel. The hotel parlor with its coal burning grate still glows merrily in season and deply.

Symbol of "Hometown Service wherever you drive"

Only a few old residences and the brick business building that once lined the main street of the city are left. In between the few that remain are the fallen and burned remains of others. To those who know its history or who knew the town in its better days, it is very much a ghost town.

A continuing crackdown on county taverns resulted Thursday evening in the arrest of a Cottage Hills tavern owner who was charged with keeping a gambling house, it was reported by Chief Deputy Sheriff George Ramach.

There's light wherever she steps in her Medallion home

Smart mother. When she and her husband decided to build, she insisted on a home with the Medallion at the door.

Now, for sure, she's got a home with light wherever light is needed. No dark stairways, nooks and crannies to invite stumbles by young or old.

Hand in hand with this, her Medallion home has adequate wiring for both present and future needs—heavy duty circuits, special purpose circuits, general purpose circuits. No blown fuses here.

Her Medallion home is equipped with—and wired for—at least four major electric appliances, including an electric range.

And—this can be important—her Medallion home has the plus-value that will invite the right price, should she and her husband sometime wish to sell.

Before you buy any new home, ask the builder all about the Medallion.

State Agency On Air Pollution Offered By Simon

(Special from Springfield)

A commission to establish an independent state agency to enforce laws relating to chemical and organic pollution of the air, water, soil and food was proposed last week in the Senate.

Sen. Paul Simon (D. Troy), who is one of nine sponsors of the bill which carries an appropriation of $20,000 for commission expenses.

Other bills introduced by representatives would authorize airport authorities to acquire land outside corporate limits of the authority; provide that unclaimed lost or stolen property be sold with proceeds to go into the municipal treasury; permit transfer of $48 million from the motor fuel tax fund to the state aid school fund, to be repaid by June 30, 1965; and increase salaries of legislators from $6000 to $7500 a year. An earlier bill calling for a hike to $9000 would require a state referendum.

New Building In GC For Month Now Totals $226,098

Eighteen building permits designating values of $40,275 were issued during the third week of May by Granite City building inspector Earl Bloomquist. Most were of a routine nature.

The amount pushed the May total to $226,098, represented in 44 permits, considerably behind the pace set in April when 78 permits were issued with total values of $730,173. However, the April total contained several large industrial and commercial construction projects.

Twenty permits were issued during the week, but one was for razing a four-room house at 2702 Denver street at a cost of $1000 and another was for razing a two-story house at 2901 N. Main street, which listed no estimated cost.

Commercial permits were obtained by Yellon Supply Co. 20th and Adams streets, for general alterations of a warehouse, $1000, and Rome & Roy restaurant and tavern, 2476 Madison avenue, for an addition to the building, $400.

A permit for a new home was issued to Cecil Andrews, 2833 Cayuga street, at 4130 Road avenue, $11,500. Three permits for additions to homes were obtained by C. D. Massey, 2068 Fourteenth street, a utility room, $1000; Joseph Arico, 3117 Jill avenue, one room, $900; and Russell Benson, 3151 Rodgers avenue, one room, $1000.

Two permits for trailers were approved for Benjamin Ahey, 2713 West 22nd street, $5000, and for Arthur Theis, lot 25 Kensington place, a trailer and garage, $6700. Three permits for garages and carports were issued to Carl King, 2550 Boyd avenue, carport and patio, $2100; N. Rensing, 2134 Woodlawn avenue, a garage, $500; and Willard H. Rome, 1322 Carr road, a carport, $300.

Seven permits for remodeling and repairs to homes were issued to Frances Davis, 2120 Lee avenue, repair porch, $675; William Eubel, 2308 West 23rd street, re-roofing, $410; Thomas L. Williamson, 715 Twenty-ninth street, siding, $600; Estee Werner, 2552 Washington avenue, siding and roof repairs, $450; Joseph Lewis, 2335 Lincoln avenue, siding, fencing and gutters, $3840; Glen Abernathy, 2846 Grand avenue, brick veneer house and extend roof 16 inches, $2500; and Lester Kymon, 2022-24 Iowa street, repair and rebuild new porch, $400.

Rockets, Circus Acts In Scouting Fair This Weekend

Three thousand cubs, scouts and explorers of the Cahokia Mound Council, Boy Scouts of America, are in the final week of preparation for the 1963 scouting fair, a significant demonstration of scouting in action to be held at the Granite City Army Depot. It will open to the public at 7 p.m. Friday, May 31, 1963, and there will be an additional showing from 2 p.m. until 10 p.m. Saturday, June 1.

Highlights of the opening night performance will be the grand opening, when Cong. Melvin Price, the fair committee members and other scouting leaders officially open the largest scouting fair ever held in the Quad-Cities.

Price will congratulate all boys who have become cubs, scouts and explorers since Jan. 1, 1963, at a ceremony following the opening "big top show."

Five Performances

The circus show, a new feature of the fair, will present two performances on Friday, one Saturday afternoon and two on Saturday evening.

Theme of the "big top" will be "Strengthen America—Character Counts." Over 300 will take part in an hour-long stage show depicting scouting and its part in developing character in the youth of the U.S.

The six acts will include a grand opening parade of all performers, cub scouts in the May circus theme, "invitation to adventure" in scouting, the thrill of camping, pioneering, first-aid and signaling.

"Fit for Tomorrow" will stress keeping strong physically and will feature explorers, "America's Beginning" will be a display of Indian choreography by explorers and scouts in authentic Indian costumes. The final act, "Strengthen America," again will feature the entire cast in a patriotic closing.

Besides the big top, 108 cub packs, scout troops and explorer posts will have booth demonstrations showing the public the skills they have learned in their scout training.

40 Quad-City Units

Units from the Duquoin District which are participating are: Pack Two, Spatter painting; Pack Three, mobiles; Troop Three, pack rack making; Pack Six, metal art; Troop Six, electricity; Post Six, Indian lore and dancing; Pack Seven, cub scout artists; Troop Seven, coin and stamp collecting; Troop Eight, patrol camping; Squadron Eight, missile theory and simulated rocket launch; Pack Nine, cub scouts; Troop 31, pets.

How to Figure Your Net Worth

By ERNEST A. KARANDJEFF, President—Granite City Trust and Savings Bank

Do you know your net worth? It's an important question to ask ourselves once a year because our net worth tells us what our money policy should be for the coming year. . . . whether we should buy, sell, invest, save more, borrow.

Your net worth figure shows you whether you are gaining or losing financial position. You must do it with a pencil and paper, not your head. You see, you may have less cash in the bank than last year, but still have a higher net worth.

Take a blank sheet of paper.

Under assets, list all you now have in savings and checking accounts and credit union funds.

Also cash-on-hand in the house. Here, also, count the cash value of your insurance policies. Not face value. The cash value is what you would get if you cashed in your insurance policy today.

Now add the market value of all stocks and bonds you own. If these are not in your newspaper, ask your broker. Our government bonds, present value, not maturity value.

Next . . . in the same column list any amounts you have invested in pension or retirement programs. Next add the value of your business partnership. Add the value of your house and lot or other real estate.

NOTE: For financial assistance in banking services, you can call me to consult Mr. Karandjeff or any of the other officers of Granite City Trust and Savings Bank, 909 Edison Avenue.

Hours: 9:00 to 2:00—Monday thru Thursday

Friday 9:00 to 1:00 and 4:00 to 7:00

Telephone—Triangle 6-1212

On this next one you must be severe with yourself. . . . furniture, automobile, rugs, jewelry, household appliances. Here's the rub: Add Aunt Georgianna paid $283 for that teakwood coffee table she gave us? somebody, you played. "And I wouldn't part with it for $500." True. But if the used furniture market for this item is $335 . . . that's what you put down.

Now add up the left hand column. Probably a pleasant surprise, isn't it?

Now start the "liability" column. Write down the total amount yet due on your mortgage, any amount due any other creditor, your furniture, any installment plan purchases, or promissory notes. Don't forget to include your annual church pledge.

Total the column. Now subtract the right hand column from the left. The remaining figure is your net worth.

What does this figure mean to you? For one, it instantly tells you your borrowing ability. It's a credit evaluation. It's an important figure in your estate planning. By comparing it with last year's net worth, you know how much you have progressed . . . or the reverse.

If the results are disappointing, you're still ahead for facing the facts so you can change your financial course before you hit a reef. If the results are good, you can now take advantage of the favorable financial position, perhaps by investing in securities, in property, in education, or . . . just more living.

Winston Churchill said it right when he said, "Many an admiral has lost a battle . . . because he didn't know he was winning."

Water Firm Challenges Rate Cut On Big Users

(Special from Springfield)

The East St. Louis and International Water Co. Friday filed a petition for rehearing of the Illinois Commerce Commission May 22 order reversing its approval of a 12.2 per cent water rate increase.

The revision cut the hike to 9.25% for large water users, reducing the yearly increase of $388,000 by $175,000.

The water firm contends the ICC was in error in finding that $37,124.463 is a fair and reasonable amount to cover operating expenses, including federal income taxes.

The company also said the ICC finding that Monsanto Chemical Co. could install its own facilities and obtain water at a lower rate is "erroneous and contrary to the substantial weight of evidence."

The lawsuit was filed in federal court May 21, 1962, effective date.

WMU, GA GROUPS MARK ANNIVERSARY

The Women's Missionary Union of the Pontoon Southern Baptist Church celebrated the 75th anniversary of the organization and the 50th anniversary of the Girls Auxiliary with a banquet and program at the church Friday evening.

As each mother and daughter registered, she was presented an orchid corsage.

Theme for the evening was "Those Wonderful Years" and many of the ladies were dressed in costumes of years gone by. The Women's Union colors being purple and white and the GA colors green and gold, the four colors were used in the decorations, including the favors, program and place cards.

The centerpiece was a console of orchids with tall lighted gold candles, while green candles were in gold color holders. A large three-tiered green and white cake and a large three-tiered purple and white cake topped with flowers also adorned the table, while a table of antiques occupied one corner of the room.

The program consisted of an opening talk by the Women's Missionary Union president, Mrs. Eva Pittman. A welcome was given by Miss Joyce Dayton on behalf of the Girls Auxiliary with a response by Mrs. Laura Falter of the WMU.

Mrs. Dorothy Flowers, prayer chairman, gave the invocation, followed with "fun time," which included group singing of old time songs. A play, "Then and Now," was given by Alice Smith in a 1913 costume and Becky Falter as a modern-day girl.

A story, "Brotherhood Widener," was read by Mrs. Tricie Martin. It was a published story written by her daughter, Marilee Verdu, one of the invited guests at the banquet. A song entitled "Mother" was rendered by Roylyn Lynn Green.

The closing devotion was given by Mrs. Hazel Kemper of the Mitchell Baptist Church, who was accompanied by her daughter, Susan.

Mothers and daughters present were Mrs. Hazel Kemper and daughter, Susan, Mrs. Bea Harvey and daughter, Debbie, Mrs. Maxine Green and children, Becky and Roylyn, Mrs. Blanche Pickett and daughter, Benita, and Brenda, Mrs. Dorothy Flowers and daughter, Susan, Mrs. Sylvia Whitehead and daughter, Carrie, Mrs. Patricia Durborow and daughter, Cindy, Mrs. Minnie Dayton and daughter, Joyce.

Social Security Benefits

20,900 In County Get $1,451,736 Each Month

Social Security benefits of that as of Dec. 31, 1962, about 20,900 residents of the county were collecting $1,451,736 a year from Social Security, a 10% increase over 1961.

More persons could draw Social Security benefits if they knew more about the law, he said. He urged Madison countyans to visit or call the Social Security office whenever they have a question about benefits or responsibilities.

Last January there were more than 18 million beneficiaries in the United States receiving payments of $1.2 billion a month, he said.

The national average monthly retirement benefit in January was $76, he said, while in Illinois it was $81.

The number and the amount paid in each type of monthly benefits in Madison County include:

Retired worker, 10,633, $863,935; wife or husband, 2261, $130,829; widow or widower, 2542, $169,882; mothers and children, 2846, $106,900; disabled workers and dependents, 1501, $106,924; and parents, 58, $4250, for a total of 20,901 recipients for a total of $1,451,729 in payments.

SWIU Historian Writes
Czech Nationalism Book

A new book by a Southwestern Illinois University historian traces the development of Czech nationalism through the movement to construct a Czech national theater. Written by Stanley Kimball after three trips to Europe, the book has been accepted for publication by the University of Illinois Press.

Kimball uses the Czech national theater movement to demonstrate "the process of a loosely organized and nationally indifferent people becoming self-conscious and electing a cultural renaissance."

Nationalism is one of the most important factors in modern European history, according to Kimball, and the development of the Czech national movement during the 19th century was the best manifestation of nationalism in all Central Europe.

Kimball, who taught at Columbia University before coming to SWIU's Quad-City-Edwardsville campus in the fall of 1959, has just been awarded by the Humboldt Foundation in Germany a 12-month research fellowship to do research in that country.

Someone next year he plans to take his family to Germany. They will center in Munich so he can travel conveniently through Central Europe to continue his study of nationalism.
